

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention relates to an electronic board apparatus. An electronic board apparatus of the present invention transmits data representing a

- 5 handwritten image written on a predetermined board to an external computer. According to the present invention, it is determined whether or not the external computer can receive the data, and if it is determined that the external computer cannot receive the data, the data is
- 10 stored in a memory provided in the electronic apparatus.